'Mask up!': Students return to classrooms altered by pandemic

Virtual Faculty Retreat

Faculty and staff members at Marist School met for a virtual retreat in preparation for the academic year ahead. Bishop Joel Konzen, S.M. served as the keynote speaker, offering inspiring words about this year's Marist Way theme, "Ardent Love of Neighbor," in the context of the COVID-19 global pandemic and racial injustice. He said, "I pray that your commitment to loving your neighbor – your fellow Marist staff members, your students, their parents, your own children and parents, and those whose names and stories you don't know and will not know – is strengthened during this time of common anxiety, such that you are bearers of the Good News that Jesus LIVES and transforms our fears through his own generous example. May we have the grace to do likewise."

Marist School Preparation & First Days of School

Marist School has been busy preparing to welcome students back. Things look a little different on campus, from temperature checks and wellness screenings, to mask-wearing, to socially distanced placement of desks, to one-way hallways and stairwells, and to lunch outside in the Arcade, among other safety measures. No matter what the school year looks like, we are committed to living out our mission to form the whole person in the image of Christ. Marist School's top priorities are always the health and well-being of students, faculty, and staff, and that is at the forefront of all we do.
